Old Sails Willing to Bet Shamrock Wins

Newport, Sept. 13.—This is a Lipton town. What may be treason to the New York Yacht Club is a keen gustatory anticipation to the boys along the Newport waterfront.

There is a distinctive commercial and civic appeal in the names of Murphy and Sullivan and O'Brien, but hang out over the water, bachelors, bachelors and ready-to-wear sales. This is reflected in the hope that the combination of Lipton, Shamrock and Erin will score a victory in the undulating waves of green.

There is also a sentimental touch in the situation, not at all peculiar to the breed, that the aging and ailing Lipton might be able to make this last trial of his swathing success.

Up early and at breakfast with a few intimates, the Lipton was up, as usual, the supreme in portmanteau.

"If we have good weather we'll have a fine time," he said. "I wish I could go with him."

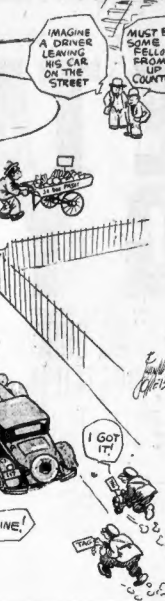

Here in Newport there is a vibrant feeling that Shamrock will be the winner of the America's cup for 30 years are willing to bet on her. And when these birds bet their money they must know something. As a rule they wouldn't bet that the sun would rise or not to bet.

The betting here today is about even money for the first race, largely due to the fact that, while the feeling is in favor of Shamrock, the predominant local weather bet is taken into consideration. Her crew insisted she liked light air, but she crossed the Atlantic under her own sail, with a shortened rig, and yachtsmen either insisted she would not mind anything like a gale or rather on the open ocean course.

PRISONER OF ARGENTINA

Government Statement Is Issued, Saying He Can't Leave Country

Buenos Aires, Sept. 13 (AP)—An official government communication issued today said the deposed president of Argentina, Dr. Hipolito Yrigoyen, was under arrest and would not be allowed to leave the country.

The communiqué cleared the status of the aged former official, who Thursday morning was placed aboard the cruiser Gen. Belgrano presumably for transportation to Montevideo or other place of exile. The Gen. Belgrano did not reach Montevideo, however, despite official notification to the Uruguayan government from its ambassador at Buenos Aires that the warship was en route to Uruguay, and after several hours outgoing steamers reported to La Nación, important Buenos Aires paper, that the cruiser was at anchor off Buenos Aires.

CHANGE OF ATTITUDE

The status of arrest for the deposed President announced today, suggesting a change of heart in the new Chief Executive, Gen. Fructo Uriburu, who in interviews early in the week said that Yrigoyen would be allowed to go where he wished.

The United States Supreme Court issued an extraordinary decree today affirming legality of the fact of government and exonerating its use of the military as necessary to suppress a rebellion in the nation. The government was said to have dedicated the military maintenance of the constitution and fundamental laws of the state.

FLYNN TO BROADCAST

Campaign Address

Arthur G. Flynn of Revue, a Salem newspaper publisher, seeking the Democratic nomination for U. S. Senator today sent the following telegram to Senator Gerald P. Nye of North Dakota, who yesterday announced the Senate campaign investigating committee would probe expenditures by Bay State candidates.

"In the interest of clean politics, and a fair opportunity for the people to know the truth about the proposed investigation, I start in about two weeks. The league has requested Nye to inquire into the conduct of the campaign of William M. Butler, Republican candidate."

All men were brothers in 1914, but look what happened to them in that war.

And, by the way, the ancient barbarian who considered every stranger an enemy was the ancient barbarian that survived. He didn't go for a stroll with his club, a sharp flint at the end of it. He never said: "I love everybody."

Had he done so, some of those that he loved would have eaten him in that rage.

Another good dry has "gone wrong" from the point of view of prohibition.

Sensor Burton K. Wheeler, of Montana, is a fellow and concludes now that "national prohibition is a failure, and that each state should be left to regulate the liquor traffic as a majority of its citizens may see fit."

Sensor Wheeler says he voted for prohibition in the Montana to get rid of the "alcohol," but now that prohibition, we have in many cities more dives and speakeasies than there are openly admitted saloons. "I am not so certain that prohibition will be in the old days."

STORM SWEEPS TO SEA OFF CAROLINA

Hurricane Causes Heavy Damage on Coast; No Lives Believed Lost

Raleigh, N. C., Sept. 13 (INS)—Damage was wrought along the Carolina coast during the night by a tropical hurricane but the storm passed out to sea early today without loss of life, it was believed.

At Cape Lookout, 15 miles from Beaufort, the storm raged along at a pace of more than 100 miles an hour, destroying almost a score of houses and doing damage to the coast guard headquarters.

Commercial telegraph and telephone lines were out of commission along the coast and exact extent of the damage is not known. Moorhead City and Beaufort escaped the full force of the hurricane, but the storm had caused ships to put into port and no reports of shipping in distress were received.

About 100 refugees were sheltered in the Cape Lookout coast guard station, reports here said. The group was made up of sailors.

Major Curley said he didn't care whether the Democratic state convention would elect him or not, but he was "independent" to take Fitzgerald's place, so long as the candidate measured up to the voters' responsibilities.

Major Curley, former president of the Democratic city committee, was merely "played out" and that he would be able to leave the hospital in six or eight weeks.

The outpouring of Democratic support was so great that the meeting had to be adjourned from Hotel Fitzgerald.

Major Curley paid high tribute to Judge O'Connell.

Major Curley will speak for Fitzgerald on the radio from Station WJLA, with this the speaker assured his audience that he was not a candidate.

Uriburu On Air to Tell U. S. of Revolution

New York, Sept. 13.—American radio listeners will hear Gen. Jose Evaristo Uriburu, president of the Argentine revolution, and his aide Sunday evening, beginning at 7 P. M. on WJLA, a radio network of National Broadcasting stations.

The new President of the Argentine Republic will speak from the presidential palace in Buenos Aires in Spanish, but his cousin, Jose Evaristo, former ambassador to England, will be at his side to translate the President's remarks into English.

The broadcast was arranged by Hearst Newspapers Radio Service Company. Gen. Uriburu, a representative of the service, in co-operation with the National Broadcasting Company, is making a tour of the United States, so President Uriburu will make his talk over the telephone.

The Uriburu revolution is a revolution of the United States, so President Uriburu will make his talk over the telephone.

It will be the first time a revolutionary leader has told the facts behind the story of a change in government. Gen. Uriburu today expressed satisfaction at the opportunity afforded him by the latest newspapers and the National Broadcasting Company to address the people of the United States and ally matters.

FIVE MEN FINED $950 IN DRIVE AGAINST POOLS AND LOTTERIES

2 SENTENCED IN ROXBURY

One New Arrest Made in Raid in South End and 726 Tickets Seized

The drive against pools continued today with five men fined a total of $950 in Municipal Court, two men sentenced to the House of Correction in Roxbury court and one man arrested in a raid on a house on Bradford st., South End.

Frank Nelson, 37, of Lucerne st., Dorchester, was arrested in the raid, charged with promoting a lottery. Sgt. O'Neill and Special Officers Pimental and Hurst reported seizing 726 lottery tickets and several hundred pads and envelopes.

In the Roxbury court cases, Judge Hayden made good his promise to impose "stiff jail sentences" on lottery defendants.

Judge John Duff in Boston found Michael DeLoro, Prince st., North End, guilty of setting up and promoting a lottery and fined him three months in the house of correction. DeLoro appealed.

He was arrested by Sgt. Anthony Ferrule and Special Officers Joseph Cunningham and William Suttile and told police he was the owner of the place found upon him. Police asked him to come to court and when she arrived, DeLoro accepted full responsibility.

No complaint was made against her.

Rudolph Williams, of Hancock st., Cambridge, appealed a fine of $250 and a jail sentence of one month imposed by Judge Duff. Three cases were heard before Judge Zottoli and fines were imposed in each case.

Charles Grace of 397 Columbus st. was charged with registering horses bet. His second offense was fined two months. He was fined $250. Richard White of North Beach st., Brighton, charged with setting up and promoting, was fined $250 by Judge Zottoli.

In Roxbury, Harry Gordon and Joseph Botary, giving their addresses as Dorchester, were found guilty of setting up and promoting a lottery after trial.

CRASH WRECKS YANCEY PLANE
New York, Sept. 12 (AP)—Their plane wrecked and burned, Capt. Lewis A. Yancey and two companions were stranded today on a little island in the Bahamas on a little home from a tour of Latin America. All escaped unhurt.

News of the accident was received here in radiograms from Yancey to his wife and to Isadore Goldberg, president of the Pilot and Radio Club. Capt. Yancey spoke of the flight.

"Ship cracked up and burned. No one injured," Yancey said in his message to Mrs. Yancey.

His message to Goldberg said: "Forced landing, Exuma Island. Turned over and burned plane. Complete loss. No one injured." The message was sent by way of Georgetown, friends assumed the forced landing had been made on Great Exuma Island.

The last point Yancey was heard from until yesterday was Port of Spain, Trinidad.

PLAN NATIONAL NEWS RADIO

Trenton, N. J., Sept. 12.—The proposed development of a nationwide broadcasting system for the sending of news was under consideration today with the application of the American Radio News Corporation to the state board of public utility for permission to construct a station in Carlisle, Bergen County.

The company, all of the stock of which is owned by William Randolph Hearst, seeks a certificate of public convenience and necessity. A hearing on the application was held by the commission Monday. The plans of the company call for construction of a station in Carlisle, equipped with automatic sending machines which will broadcast on a frequency of 50 and 90 wavelengths.

The new firm claims this will not produce any interference with regular broadcasting stations, which operate on a frequency of from 200 to 1300 "miles" per second. Other similar stations are planned at Chicago, Denver, San Francisco and Atlanta, Ga.

The state board is waiting to hear from Carlisle officials as to whether there is any objection to the station. No opposition was recorded at the hearing.

TEACHERS JOIN IN PROTEST
With parents divided on the issue, many of the striking 306 boys and girls of the Watertown senior and junior high schools volunteered the prediction today that the school committees would refuse to shorten the sessions.

It was learned from other sources that the teachers had presented a group protest against the longer hours to the school board some time ago, without result.

The school board has advanced its special meeting, scheduled for Monday, to tomorrow evening, but while this was hailed as a temporary victory for the strikers, they were admittedly pessimistic about the outcome.

The number of strikers was set at 505 today by announcement that 465 duly enrolled students were absent from the high school yesterday, 95 from the West Junior high school and 35 from the East Junior high school.

BOSTON GAINS WATER TRADE

Middlebury, Vt., Sept. 12.—New England is gaining in waterborne commerce, and that of Boston has increased 25 per cent, between 1925 and 1929. Alfred H. Haag, director of research for the U. S. Shipping Board, declared at the 20th quarterly meeting of the New England council.

Boston handles approximately 45 per cent of the waterborne trade of New England, and that city has advanced from 1,400,000 tons in 1925 to 1,700,000 tons in 1929," he said.

The total foreign trade of Boston in 1929 aggregated 2,400,000 tons, while in 1925 it reached a total of more than 2,750,000 tons, an increase of 10 per cent.

"Boston's coastwise trade increased 32 per cent in the same period, and the waterborne commerce of New England gained 25 per cent," he said.

Hearst Asked to Boston as Guest of Honor

William Randolph Hearst, en route to America aboard the steamship Europa, has been invited by Mayor Curley in a radio message to be the city's guest of honor during the tercentenary parade and festivities next Wednesday.

Following is the mayor's radiogram: "William Randolph Hearst, 'Steamship Europa, Hamburg-American Line:'

"The city of Boston will observe on Wednesday, September 17, the 300th anniversary of the establishment of the Massachusetts Bay Colony. More than 50,000 citizens will parade and 3,000,000 visitors are expected."

"The Dominion of Canada government officials, the mayor of every city in Canada and the provinces, and the mayor of Boston, England, with leading American officials, including Secretary of the Navy Adams, 10 governors and 100 mayors, are to be our guests."

"The occasion honors the beginning of free government in the world, and in view of the recent brutal assault upon the principle of free government, Boston extends and wants you to accept an invitation to be honor guest of the city and occupy position upon court of honor at the right of the mayor, as one American who earned the right to this distinction."

James M. Curley
"Mayor of Boston."

Maj. Stedman Near Death After Stroke

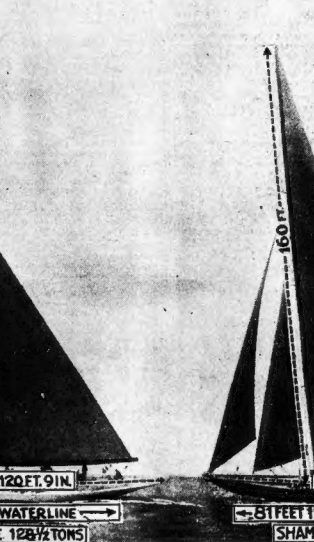

Washington, Sept. 12 (U.S.)—Maj. Charles M. Stedman, Democratic representative from North Carolina and sole survivor of the Civil War serving in Congress, continued in a critical condition at Mount Alta Hospital here today.

Maj. Stedman suffered a stroke of apoplexy and because of his 89 years, his recovery is doubtful.

"I can say with all sincerity that nothing gives me more happiness than that I have never been drawn into political life," he said. "I have watched what happens to holders of high political office. I have seen their every word distorted and twisted to find some hidden meaning. I have seen their political supporters picture them as prodigies of wisdom and statesmanship while their opponents at the same time set them out as stupid soundbites. And I have known them, and known that they were neither the one nor the other, just average Americans."

Joseph Rossiter, G. A. R. Veteran, Heads Marchers in Tercentenary Procession

Thousands flocked to East Boston today to witness the tercentenary parade, with several thousand veterans in line, led by an 89-year-old Civil War veteran, Joseph Rossiter.

Buildings along the route were gaily decorated, and open house will be in order this evening at a number of places, including the two American Legion post headquarters.

Legionnaires of a dozen or more Greater Boston cities and towns, with drum and bugle corps, participated in the parade, together with Naval, Marine and Army units, National Guardsmen and Coast Guards.

It is East Boston's biggest celebration in years and police declared more than 10,000 persons, including a majority of the 70,000 residents, watched the parade.

The marching band started from McCormick sq., and proceeded to Mount Alta Hospital, via Summer st., Maverick sq., Meridian st., Bennington st., Day sq., Saratoga st. and Gladstone st.

Two Weddings on Society Calendar for Today

THREE INTERESTING events crowd the social calendar today, two of which are the weddings of Vincent Club members, Miss Harriet C. Rantoul at Fitzwilliam, N. H., and Miss Laura Robbins at Pocasset. For a still larger group the international yacht races at Newport, with its brilliant society gallery, offer a week-end journey long to be remembered.

SIMPLICITY MARKED THE wedding of Miss Harriet Rantoul, daughter of Mrs. Lou Burnett Rantoul, Jamaica Plain, when she exchanged vows with Sherman Baldwin of New York in the little rustic church near the summer home of her sister, Mrs. Richard L. Bowditch, at Fitzwilliam at high noon. The bride was gownwed in white crepe de chene and carried white orchids. Rev. Ellmore M. McKee read the marriage service. The bride was attended by her sister, Mrs. Richard Bowditch (Mabel Rantoul), a nation of home and by Miss Eleanor Baldwin, sister of the bridegroom. Mrs. Hamilton Hadley, Miss Althea Ward, all of New York, and by Miss Barbara Burnett of Boston. Rose crepe frocks, made on simple lines, were worn by the bridesmaids, who carried single pink daisies.

HAMILTON HADLEY OF New York was best man and the usher corps included Parker McClellan, James Hemenway, Dr. Samuel Lambert of New York, Barclay Robinson of Hartford, Ct., J. Sanford Otis, of Chicago, and Richard L. Bowditch of Boston. Following the ceremony a large reception was held at West Hill Farm, Fitzwilliam. The couple will spend their honeymoon abroad and will make their home in New York.

A MILITARY NOTE LENDS formality to the nuptials of Miss Laura Robbins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Reginald Lauran Robbins of Milton and Pocasset, and Lieut. Joseph Lyman at Star Hill, Wingo, N. H., in an impressive home ceremony today. The Rev. Dr. Charles E. Park officiated. The bride's attendants are Miss Elizabeth L. Scuffs of Milton, who has the honor role; Miss Hannah C. Lyman, sister of the bridegroom, and Miss Margaret E. Burdett of Canton. Mr. Lyman's staff of aides includes his brother, Frank Lyman, Jr., as best man; James Robbins, brother of the bride; Rev. William Burdett of Canton, N. H.; C. Ford Warren of Cambridge, and William A. Backus of Dublin, N. H., as ushers. The bridegroom is attached to the United States Marine Corps Reserve, aviation section. The couple will go to Quantic, Va., to live at the marine base until next July.

Busy Program Confronts East Bridgewater Club

By NANCY BREWSTER
The East Bridgewater Woman's Club starts the new year Oct. 17 with an increased membership. Miss Mary L. Keith, president, announces:

But prior to the club opening, the women will enter a float in the Old Home Day parade of the town, Sept. 20, a float which will depict the interior of a log cabin, as the club's contribution to East Bridgewater's Bicentennial observance. To start the calendar, the meeting will be held at the First Methodist House with a luncheon supper the "big thing" of the program. Of this Mrs. C. L. Sturgis is the chairman.

Other events listed include a dramatic program Nov. 14 of which the literature committee has charge; Mrs. George M. Webber, past president and also president of the Bridgewater Ousemouth Club; a Christmas frolic at the home of Mrs. A. Richmond Parker, chairman of the community service committee; an American Home program in charge of the chairman of the committee, Mrs. Theron E. Fisher; a public health program of which Mrs. Harry Kingman, chairman, has charge; an education meeting and an art demonstration.

The club is to hold its annual meeting May 8 with a musicale on the program to take place at the home of the music chairman, Mrs. Martin F. Ellis, a past president of the club.

An up-to-date report of the Massachusetts States Federation of Women's Clubs contribution to the General Federation Foundation Fund is contained in the latest issue of General Federation News, the official organ of the parent group.

Dr. Clara B. Burdett, chairman of the board of trustees, reports this about Bay State women and their generosity: "Twelve thousand five hundred dollars have been donated to the General Federation by the Foundation Fund, and an equivalent of this amount is returned by the state. Two hundred and forty-nine clubs have pledged large gallery but a social success as well—if the turnout of visitors from afar denotes proper appreciation. This show is one of the few in this country that retains the old traditions of the hunt club, and the group that attends it carry on the old neighborhood business that makes such an event an occasion long remembered with pleasure. As each automobile arrived with more visitors, the genuine pleasure of those who had come from as far away as West Chop on the Cape and Northeast Harbor, Me., just to "see the horses work" was evident. Mrs. Richard Ely Danielson, who arranged the program, was congratulated on every side for the outstanding success of the show.

NOTED AMONG THE "RAIL-RIDERS" was Miss Harriet Rantoul, president of the Vincent Club, in a cool looking tan chiffon print and wide straw hat, and Mrs. John E. Thayer, Jr., of Lancaster, in yellow sport legs and surrounded by her interesting family, which is already initiated into the thrill of wearing numbers on their backs. The Thayer stable was not, however, on the entry list this year. Mrs. E. M. Grinnell in turquoise chiffon gown was perhaps the busiest woman present, sharing honors with Gen. Francis Peabody as judge of the show. Miss Dorothy Naybair and Miss Clarissa Donham were over from Framingham, and the Reginald Birds, father, son and daughters, Miss Betty and Patricia. Miss Isabella Grandin was up from the Cape to watch the performance of her jumper, and Miss Margaret and Elizabeth Peabody kept tabs on the results of each class as they sat in the judge's box with Mrs. Charles Keyes, official secretary. The Richard Lawrence, of course, carried off some of the ribbons.

THE IRISH "JAUNTY WAGON" brought over by the Misses Betty and Cordelia Dumaine on their latest crossing from old Erin, created a sensation as it arrived at the grounds with Mr. Dumaine on the box. The vehicle, a two-wheeled open cart with seats on the sides, The Dumaines have been hunting in Ireland.

Mrs. William Sutton Directs Fair at North Andover

MRS. WILLIAM SUTTON is directing the annual fair of the Village Improvement Society of North Andover on the village green there today from 11 until 7 o'clock. Prominent residents are assisting at various booths. Mrs. Nathaniel Stevens, Mrs. Richard S. Russell, Miss Kate Stevens, Mrs. John J. Chickering, Mrs. D. F. Russell, Mrs. John Collidge and Mrs. John H. Scoville are each serving at the fair. Luncheon was served at the Old Berry House by a charming group of young waitresses in charge of Mrs. John O. Levine.

THE ENGAGEMENT OF MISS GLADYS C. NORDSTROM to Morgan H. Harris is announced by Mrs. Walter D. Nordstrom at their part of the Foundation Fund, and 71 clubs were on the honor roll, which means that they have pledged unequaledly their entire quota for the three years. Two clubs not approving the Foundation Fund made a substantial contribution. Well, the girls are getting up and shows that they were not so opposed as they thought they were.

Mrs. Axel A. Packard, Massachusetts director in the General Federation, and last year's president of the Massachusetts State Federation, takes up the work started by Mrs. Arthur Devens Potter of Greenfield.

CHESTER PARK. A VIEW OF which is shown here, ran from Harrison ave. to Shawmut ave. and then broadened out into Chester sq., all now a part of Massachusetts ave. This view is looking from Washington at toward Shawmut ave. When Chester pk. and the square were built it was expected that this would be the fashionable residential section of the city and it was for a time until the Back Bay developed. Even today the houses are fine and comfortable. This picture was made in the late 1850's. From the collection of Edwin S. Webster.

DAILY ANTIQUE No. 195

We are very sure that you would like to have this wonderful watch chain in your list of odd pieces. It's a double link English gold chain and was founded by hand into the shape you now see it, about 1680. For nearly 300 years the chain has been in the Alford family, always being handed down to the oldest son. The present owner is Harry Alford, Carroll ave., Westwood. Twenty-three years ago the chain was given to him by his father, Henry Veale Alford, Plymouth, England. The coin is an English guinea of 1680 color. This has been used on the chain ever since that date.

Boston Evening American is publishing daily photographs of interesting antiquities. Owners of antiques of Colonial or early American origin or of historic association are invited to forward photographs and records for publication. If a photograph is not available, the American will send a cameraman to photograph the antique, providing the owner lives in Greater Boston. Address the Antique Editor, Boston Evening American, 6 Winthrop st., Boston, Mass.

M'SIEU JACK TAKES PEN IN HAND

By NICHOLAS YOUNG
JACK DONAHUE, tireless hooper of Bunker Hill, will step into a new role at the opening of "Princess Charming" at the Shubert on Monday. Thereafter he should be addressed as Mr. Donahue, author. Having been the most popular, even most fluent, jokemaster of local renown for some years, there will be no lack of friendly interest in Mr. Donahue's appearance as a budding librettist. The Old Home Guard will be out in force.

UPON MR. DONAHUE'S own word, most of the humorists that called him to fame and glory with "Stuffed" shows and in "Sons of Guns" have been of his composition. He is said to have written the libretto for himself and being included in the list of royalties.

Nicholas Young pitiful neglect on his part, we have men told, to say nothing of its reflection upon him as a business man. That is all over now. When Donahue writes funny pieces for the theater in the future, stipulations regarding fees, royalties and what not, must precede the delivery of manuscript.

IN THE CASE of "Princess Charming," Mr. Donahue has undertaken the entire job and a portion of his reward is to be found in glancing type proclaiming him the adapter—or author for America, if you please. So now we discover Jack Donahue tripping merrily in the footsteps of that other distinguished dancing comedian, Mr. George M. Cohan who, years ago, foregoes the dance for a fling at play-writing. These defections from an accepted vocation suggest a useful field of industry for the dancer whose feet have grown weary and whose joints are stiff and sore.

THERE is an interesting parallel in the example of Mr. Cohan and Mr. Donahue. Mr. Cohan turned to his typewriter at the peak of his dancing career. Mr. Donahue, it appears, is following the same course, for before the month is out he will return to "Sons of Guns" for a jump into the Southwest before entering upon an extended season in and about the major cities of the North. He will start upon this expedition as a comedian and dancer, but undoubtedly a pad and pencil will be found somewhere among his personal effects, ready for instant use at the popping of an idea.

JANE COWL has decided that playing a dual role presents too many grave problems for the comfort of her audiences. Therefore she has given up the experiment of playing both Viola and Sebastian in "Twelfth Night" at the Wilbur and will stick to Viola. During the remainder of Miss Cowl's engagement the part of Sebastian will be played by Jerry Bowman.

DOROTHY GRANGER and JOHN DARROW MISS GRANGER makes a good inkstand as Mr. Darrow steps on the gas. These screen lovers are featured in "The Princess Fair" on the anniversary program at the Park this week.

Baffling Is Beauty as Woman Makes Man Mere Pawn of Life in the Drama

PRISON CAMP GAVE BOOST TO GENIUS

James Whale, who won fame as stage director of the original "Journey's End" production in London, and several American productions of the famous R. C. Sherriff play, as well as directing the film version of this same drama, staged the dialogue for the air spectacle, "Hell's Angels" now at the Tremont.

Oddly enough, this same young Englishman got his first experience as stage director while he was consigned to a German prison camp at Holt-Minden. They caught him in a surprise attack while he was on patrol on the Year front and he spent 20 months bombarding with 1400 other officers caught like himself. But out of that experience came an urge to go on the stage, which he did upon after he got back to England.

He was playing at the Strand in London in "High Treason" when the Stage Society invited him to put on "Journey's End," which had been turned down by practically every producer in the British capital. His direction helped place it in the ranks of the best plays in many seasons.

Jack Haley, who plays a comedy role in "Follow Thru" at the Metropolitan this week, is a Boston boy. His parents live in the Back Bay district. Haley's mother was an interested spectator at the first showing here of the picture.

Haley had a boyhood ambition to go on the stage, and began his stage career by playing in church entertainments in Boston. When he was 14 he took part in several minstrel shows. Later he worked in the Charleston Navy Yard and while there met Jack Donahue, now star of "Sons of Guns." Donahue advised him to seek stage work.

It is around this strange, and often romantic situation that "Death Takes a Holiday" has been created.

"Hell's Angels" at the Tremont. (Third week.) Sweeping epic of the air. Splendid cast, romance and stirring adventure.

Jane Cowl in "Twelfth Night" at the Wilbur. (Second week.) Miss Cowl makes a lovely Viola, which quite all argument.

"Blackbirds of 1930" at the Lyric. (Second week.) Gay musical revue from Harlem, in all the popular styles and tints.

Dorothy Granger and John Darrow in "The Princess Fair" at the Plymouth. (Third week.) There may have been Asa-benda like this, but we doubt it. The last week.

Next Week's New Bills

COLONIAL—"Sweet Adeline," musical romance of the gay nineties. Music by Jerome Kern; book and lyrics by Oscar Hammerstein, 2d. Included in the cast are Helen Morgan, Irene Franklin, Charles Butterworth, Pauline Gorn, Jim Thornton, Hans Robert, Altona Price and James H. Dunn. Dances and ensembles by Danny Dare, book staged by Reginald Hammerstein. Produced by Arthur Hammerstein and Swanson.

SHUBERT—"Princess Charming," romantic opera. Adapted by Jack Donahue from a Hungarian play called "Alexandra." Music by Albert Sirmay and Arthur Schwartz. Included in the cast are Jane Albert, Victor Moore, Raymond Walburn, Douglas Dumbrille, Betty Gallagher and Edna Kane. Also an Albertina Rasch ballet. Settings by Joseph Urban; book staged by Edward Clark Lilley. Produced by Connolly and Swanson.

COLEY—"Shooting Shadows," a mystery play by Henry F. Carlton, William F. Manley and John Harwood. The story concerns a haunted house on the moors of England. E. E. Clive handles the cast and is supported by Lena Anderson, Harold Becker, Robert Hobbs, Anthony Belmont and Langford Bruce, all new arrivals at the Colony.

LENA ANDERSON MISS ANDERSON appears in the mystery comedy, "Shooting Shadows," at the Colony.

DEATH TAKES ITS DAY OFF A play that stirs the imagination as few have in recent years.

It is in the hands of the Modern and Beacon, was born in Buffalo, N. Y., and is a graduate of the St. Mary's School for girls of that city. Later she moved to England, where she lived quietly until her death, in 1918, to seek a career in the movies.

In "On Your Back" Miss Rich depicts, from her usual type. She is allowed the full range of emotional ability in portraying the character of an ambitious woman who recognized no restraints in her climb to success.

Daddy's a Stern Old Codger The Scollay's new stage show on Monday will feature an outstanding vaudeville act, Edna Covey, who played Polina, star, in a pretentious offering, "We're Ready." The act includes Benny & Weston, with Bernie Stevens and Cadette and O'Connor Twins.

MISS KENNEDY scintillates among Lew Leslie's "Blackbirds of 1930" at the Lyric.

MIKE TESTY OVER SNORE Making sounds such what they are to the microphones was an intricate recording task encountered as a "more chorus" was staged in Buster Keaton's second talking feature, "Dough Boys," at Low's Orpheum last week.

The scene showed a group of soldiers sleeping and moving in a French state. Cliff Edwards, Victor Potel, Patsy Katz and others in the scene were instructed by Director Edward Sedgwick to snore their loudest. "Sounds like helldiving" came the report from the monitor room.

Sedgwick had the snore toned down a little and they tried again. "Cut out the whistles and you could call it the 'Buster of Albigens'" was the comment from the sound expert.

the right tempo was achieved by the men snoring so softly that it was hardly audible to the ear.

Gayety to Give Special Show Tuesday Night A midnight show with "Sliding Billy" Weston and his Big Fun show will be given at the Gayety Tuesday starting at 11:45. Election returns for the city and state primaries will be announced from the stage and there will be a series of special features put on by "Sliding Billy" himself. In addition there will be several "Tentative" numbers. Mabel White will offer some new numbers. "Sliding Billy" will announce the election returns.

Looking Ahead SEPTEMBER "Express" at the Mollie "Miss Quilley's Travels" at the Plymouth. SEPTEMBER 22—Jane Cowl in "When Hell Freezes" at the Wilbur.

Absorbed

MISS BRUGER will shine in wit and beauty in "Princess Charming," which has its premiere Monday night at the Shubert. The production is declared to be gorgeous in every way.

JANE COWL MISS COWL again proves her histrionic prowess in "Twelfth Night" at the Wilbur.

CHARMS HATH PRINCESS IN THE PLAY The postponement of the "Princess Charming" premiere at the Shubert to next Monday gives Connolly and Swanson, the producers, a chance to bring in a perfect production. The extra week of rehearsal helps the cast. The rebuilt scenery will take in some small changes which would have had to be corrected before the first night any way. Then again the costumes will not have to be hurriedly fitted as the extra time allows for several dress parades and dress rehearsals.

The entire company is of course remaining in Boston during the added week. Jack Donahue is here helping Edward Lilley, the director, put on his boys. He will return to New York after the opening to rehearse in his own show for the road.

The cast with the stars like Victor Moore, Danielle Bregis, George Grossmith and Jeanne Aubert is straining at the leash and eager to begin playing. Albert Sirmay and Arthur Schwartz, the composer, say that never has their music been so fitly sung.

MR. JOLSON has his following, and one must admit it is large in numbers. Somehow he puts his personality and other accessories across. If the comedy in which he is often content seems sometimes a bit flat, the ends are achieved, when the audience laughs loudly. Often Mr. Jolson is very funny, and then the laughter is victorious. His comedy is much more successful than his singing.

IN A NUTSHELL, "Big Boy" is an Al Jolson show. There are other performers than he—Louise Cassin, Lloyd Hughes, and some more—but they fade when Mr. Jolson's ebullient countenance looms. Probably the picture will be a box office "wow"; Mr. Jolson, despite shortcomings, usually fills the seats.

LOIS MORAN and ROBERT AMES MR. AMES undoubtedly finds the approach to Miss Moran's affairs to be the delectable experience. And she isn't at all displeased. They're to be seen in "Not Damaged," movie. Keith-Albee.

WALTER EDWIN MR. EDWIN RULES his household with severity in "Bird in Hand" at the Majestic. Artist Charles Schmidt pen-and-inks his impressions of the Iron-faced paternalism.

Reflective

MISS BRUGER will shine in wit and beauty in "Princess Charming," which has its premiere Monday night at the Shubert. The production is declared to be gorgeous in every way.

JANE COWL MISS COWL again proves her histrionic prowess in "Twelfth Night" at the Wilbur.

CHARMS HATH PRINCESS IN THE PLAY The postponement of the "Princess Charming" premiere at the Shubert to next Monday gives Connolly and Swanson, the producers, a chance to bring in a perfect production. The extra week of rehearsal helps the cast. The rebuilt scenery will take in some small changes which would have had to be corrected before the first night any way. Then again the costumes will not have to be hurriedly fitted as the extra time allows for several dress parades and dress rehearsals.

The entire company is of course remaining in Boston during the added week. Jack Donahue is here helping Edward Lilley, the director, put on his boys. He will return to New York after the opening to rehearse in his own show for the road.

The cast with the stars like Victor Moore, Danielle Bregis, George Grossmith and Jeanne Aubert is straining at the leash and eager to begin playing. Albert Sirmay and Arthur Schwartz, the composer, say that never has their music been so fitly sung.

MR. JOLSON has his following, and one must admit it is large in numbers. Somehow he puts his personality and other accessories across. If the comedy in which he is often content seems sometimes a bit flat, the ends are achieved, when the audience laughs loudly. Often Mr. Jolson is very funny, and then the laughter is victorious. His comedy is much more successful than his singing.

IN A NUTSHELL, "Big Boy" is an Al Jolson show. There are other performers than he—Louise Cassin, Lloyd Hughes, and some more—but they fade when Mr. Jolson's ebullient countenance looms. Probably the picture will be a box office "wow"; Mr. Jolson, despite shortcomings, usually fills the seats.

LOIS MORAN and ROBERT AMES MR. AMES undoubtedly finds the approach to Miss Moran's affairs to be the delectable experience. And she isn't at all displeased. They're to be seen in "Not Damaged," movie. Keith-Albee.

SHOOT'S ONLY AT SHADOW

LENA ANDERSON, charming English actress, will appear as Clara Rickland, in the first mystery play of the Copley season, "Shooting Shadows," which opens next Monday evening at the Lyric.

Miss Anderson will be the thrill-seeking young ward of a doctor.

It was during Mr. Clive's master visit to England that arrangements were made with Miss Anderson for her first engagement in America.

The infatuation of all Americans has struck her at London, but she would compare Boston, England, with her own city and say the Hub is strongly reminiscent of that famous old English city.

'ONLY SAPS WORK' TO BE NEXT FILM FOR OAKIE

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS
Motion Picture Editor Universal Service
Copyright, 1930, by Universal Service
Los Angeles, Sept. 12.—You gotta hand it to the newspaper profession, if I do say so. They have occupied all sorts of positions from president down. Here we have one Courtney Terrell, a reporter, who has been signed by Paramount as a writer. Mr. Terrell won the Bookman prize for the best newspaper story, "Only Saps Work," and there is always plenty of competition, let me tell you, in these magazine columns.

Paramount is about to produce "Only Saps Work," and hold everything while I tell you it is to be Jack Oakie's next. Pappy Heath will be the adaptation and the story is written by the Chicagoan, and, oh yes, our friend Eddie Saps is the author. "Only Saps Work" is a comedy, and it is one of my favorite bookstores and didn't buy it because I was afraid it might have a bad effect on my new fall resolve to work hard.

Piff Dorsey, that "French cockle-tail of emotions" with epigrams to Cecil De Mille who once christened Jettie Gossard similarly, will be starred in "She Wears the Pants." Piff has gone on to New York to electrify the town with his appearance in vaudeville. Electricity is what I mean for ones having met Piff you want to see her again and to laugh at her nonsense, and be amazed, Kenneth MacNee will be Piff's leading man and the picture will be made when Piff returns from her eastern jaunt. The story was written by Edna Crocker.

O. O. McLaughlin often writes about Gallipoli, Ohio, where he first saw the light of day. Gallipoli may be all he says but I doubt if it is a better town than Dixon, Illinois, my erstwhile home. Dixon is having a centennial and homecoming and George B. Shaw, writer of the Dixon Telegraph, writes to ask me to come home for it. He also writes to ask MacNee who as a small boy, lived in the town of Gallipoli, in looking for the list of names who were asked to serve on the committee to find many things that accomplished things in the big world. There is Morris Rosenthal, famous criminal lawyer in New York, and Fred E. Sterling, now lieutenant-governor. It is certainly like to be in the home town where they celebrate the 500th anniversary of the founding of Dixon. I don't know if I can make it and I doubt if Douglas MacNee will be there either.

'OLDSLEUTH' IS ON THE JOB

Edward Ellis, who plays the leading role in "Subway Express," the mystery play coming to the Hollis on September 22, was last here with "Cock Robin," another mystery play. Since stage characters have been made or lost hard-boiled types and in "Subway Express" he plays the role of a chief sleuth who suspects everybody of Edward Ellis being crooked until proven innocent. During the eighth month's run of "Subway Express" in New York, Ellis was the chief player, but this season he is featured. He has an exceedingly hard part, for he practically does a monologue during the action of the play. He comes on the stage, minutes after the curtain rises and remains there continuously until it descends. He is summoned to investigate a murder that looks like a routine homicide but which turns out to be an ingenious killing that requires all the acumen of this super-sleuth to solve. In solving this ingenious crime he takes 400 questions and gives answers to each one of them. Any actor who can do that without becoming monotonous and tiresome must display considerable artistry.

Ruth Chatterton Star in Picture at Fenway
"Anybody's Woman" opens a week's engagement at the Public Fenway today. Ruth Chatterton and Clive Brook, who together scored notable hits in "Charming Sisters" and "The Laughing Lady," are the stars. The cast includes Paul Lukas, Huntley Gordon, Tom Patullo, a strong Broadway favorite; and Juliette Compton.

"Breath-Taking Mixture of Song and Dance in"
Lew Leslie's Blackbirds of 1930
A packed theatre greeted it and filled the night with noisy approval. What the Berry Brothers did to "Blackbirds" can be told in four words. They stopped the show. —AMERICAN
"Just as frankly primitive as my previous show, and as irresistibly funny. It is a smashing good show. Ethel Waters has a beautiful voice. Her specialty, with the song 'My Handy Man Ain't Handy No More,' will stand for a long time among the really exquisite performances." —GLOBE
"Mr. Leslie has accomplished that rare achievement in the theatre of repeating a former success; possibly bettering it." —POST
"A huge cast of three thousand enters into their tasks with the zip and abandon characteristic of Negro musicals, and gave the audience every token of immense enjoyment." —HERALD
"It is worth while buying a ticket just to see Flournoy Miller and Mantan Moreland in a comedietta called 'Always Broke.' Another dancing team, identified as Buck and Bubbles, had their turn stopping the show." —RECORD

LEVIATHAN OF THE SEA DUE HERE

ALTHOUGH BOSTON is a seaport the majority of this city's residents are familiar with whales only through the medium of photographs and newsreel shots. Now, however, they will have a chance to see what one of these monsters of the deep really looks like, for "Aimee," a playful little leviathan—only 55 feet long and weighing some 68 tons—is arriving Monday in her private car for a short visit to the Hub. She will hold court daily in her palatial private conveyance which will be "anchored" on the Boston and Albany tracks, adjoining the Mechanics Building, Huntington Ave.

IN ORDER to forestall any fears that might arise in the timid, the management announces that Aimee is quite harmless, as a little matter of thirty-two hours' savage battling with harpoons and whaling torpedoes off Catalina Island in the Pacific took care of that. Although the Pacific Whaling Co., which is sponsoring this educational tour, has several other leviathans on exhibition, Aimee is the pride of the lot. She weighs 12 tons more, and is 9 feet longer than any other catch made in whaling waters. Hundreds of gallons of embalming fluid were used in the preservation of the whale, and through a secret process developed by the Pacific Company, the whale is kept in a state of perfect preservation, and without any embarrassing odor.

A VETERAN New England whaler, Capt. A. E. Folger, well known in New Bedford and Nantucket as "Whale Oil Gus," is master of ceremonies with the whale exhibit and delivers a lecture and tells thrilling tales of the monsters, while escorted by patrons through the exhibit. The car in which Aimee travels was specially built with spacious observation platforms, plate glass windows, special venting locations for children, lighting, effects and complete roofing, so that weather does not interfere with the presentations.

One-Way Traffic for Mr. Jonah

MARIE ANFENGER AND "AIMEE" LITTLE MISS MARIE is standing on the 600 lb. tongue of "Aimee," the California whale, to go on exhibition in Boston Monday. The sea beast is shown in her glass-enclosed car.

YOUTH AGAIN VOICE BETTER IN FLAMES THAN FACE

The Park is celebrating its anniversary week with a special program. The top feature on the Park screen is "The Primrose Path," starring Helen Foster, and it is another photoplay telling the tale that youth is heir to in these jazy days. The motivation centers about juvenile delinquency; and out of this the silver sheet works its tale of the primrose path that dalliance leads. "The Primrose Path" is said to be based on an actual case and is a frank story of the temptations confronting the children of today, containing the lesson. "Jazz and silk, cars parked in shady lanes, sex, road houses, are among the high lights of this picture, which illustrates the results of parental neglect.

EVEN JUNGLE NIGHT WILL GO JAZZY

Two things, chiefly, distinguished an all-colored show from a Caucasian one; wild, vigorous dancing, often bordering on hysteria, and mad contagious jazz. The one man who knows all about jazz, as it is danced and sung and moaned by colored people, is Eddie Blake, composer of the music for Lew Leslie's "Blackbirds," a new all-colored revue on view at the Lyric.

The blithering enemies of jazz music, so violently articulate a few years back, have either lost their collective voice, which was frightfully weak even when it was most active in opposition to jazz, or the conscientious objectors are not now so conscientious," declares Blake, who was half of the famous team of Steele and Blake. Long before Paul Whiteman became something of a national institution, or crooning Ruddy Vallee was born, Blake was writing music that set a nation's feet a-cancin'. Irving Berlin had not yet cranked Broadway when Blake, still a young man, had already made a name for himself along the original Tin Pan Alley. He says:

"Jazz expresses an instinct for a noisy good time that is universal and as old as the globe. Even in the jungle the natives made music of shrieks and drum beats. Primitive had the drum and war-whoop, and in the early days of the circus, a noisy clown band was the principal feature. Jazz is the American product, showing that even today my former partner in the rage of Paris with his all-colored orchestra, showing that our jazz is just as popular abroad as it is at home."

Pictures—Variety

WALDEON'S—"French Follies," a burlesque, introducing Billy Dano, Violet Stacey, Jessie McDonald and Althea Barnes. Also vaudeville and talking picture. Continuous show. ROWDOIN—"Way Out West," with William Haines, and "Lilies of the Field," with Corinne Griffith for four days starting Thursday. "The Dawn Patrol," "Back Pay" and "Swamp People." Change of vaudeville on Thursday.

She came to this country in 1917 and played featured and star parts on the New York stage until 1922, when she made her screen debut in "The Christian."

Beautiful

CLAUDETTE COLBERT MISS COLBERT is the handsome heroine of "Manslaughter" coming to the Scollay.

SONNY BOY IS SO DUTIFUL

"Alphon Stings," now at the Plymouth, effected an alliance between the old and new. The producer, Forrest C. Harting, is a newcomer to the producing field, though he has had considerable experience in theatricals, while the man who emerged as star is far from footlight acquaintance. He has been playing here in Boston off and on for some 50 years, and headed his own company for a long time. The person in question is none other than Jefferson De Angelis, who plays the part of a racy old lawyer, and, as such, creates plenty of laughs.

His part is tailored for him, of course, which makes it so much better. The play itself deals with letters left by a mother to her son, instructing him what to do in every circumstance, even to getting engaged, what kind of a girl to marry, and what not. The son follows these orders from the grave, but finds, on getting married, situations arise where letters do no good. Hence the complications—and also amusement.

TIME TO BUCK AS BULLETS ARE FLYING

Musicians in old-time Western saloons didn't wait bullet-proof vests such as the cautious citizen needs today, but they did have a peculiar form of protection from stray leaden pellets. This fact was revealed by John Francis Dillon, movie director, when he secured a shaped plate that had once been on the floor of a Carson City, Nev., saloon to protect the piano player.

The plate is seen in the film version of "The Girl of the Golden West," which has its world premiere at RKO-Keith's Theater, starting today. It was secured from the collection of Western relics owned by C. M. Worthington of Pasadena, Cal. The plate is only three feet high, for the piano player was supposed to drop from his stool and crouch behind it in case of use of "shootin' iron."

Ann Harding takes the title role in "The Girl of the Golden West," which is based on Belasco's melodramatic masterpiece. James Rennie is the bandit here, and Harry Bannister is the sheriff. Among the other favorites in the cast are J. Farrell McDonald, George Cooper, Johnny Walker, Arthur Hadden, Arthur Housman, Fred Warren and Ben Hendricks, Jr.

Taylor Directing Ray Taylor has been chosen to direct "Finger Print," the serial from the story by Arthur B. Reeve. This will be one of four talker serials on the Universal, 1936-37 program.

Mutual Burlesque Shows

Gayety Howard

Comedians may come and go, but apparently "Sliding Billy" Watson goes on forever. The famous comedian, who has been with the twinkling little feet and the funny little slide, is now in the Mutual Burlesque. He will bring his all-time run show to the Gayety, beginning Monday night. He is as strong an attraction as ever, for he has always surrounded himself with a cast of favorites. This year he completely did away with all his former routines and has a show that is brand new from start to finish. The name of his new attraction is "The Big Fat Show" and it will serve Watson's vehicle in his 1936-1937 debut.

Frank L. Norton will help discuss the mirth. Mabel White created a number of the bits of business now adopted as standard in burlesque. George F. Ryan, straight man; Judy Butler, prima donna and violinist; Marion Lee and Laura Lauric, two happy number-leaders, and Dorothy Norton, comedienne, are other stars.

Hobdy's Gayety jazz orchestra and the chorus of 20 are features.

WIFE IS ALSO SUED FOR DIVORCE

Grand Jury Indicts Lynn Man Who Is Accused by His Father-in-Law

SOLIMON GROSS OF GROVERS ave., Winthrop, whose family troubles have made him defendant in three separate actions, was today being sought for arrest on an indictment warrant charging him with larceny of $12,000.

After appearing in Lynn court yesterday for non-support of his wife and two children, Gross was later indicted at Lawrence for larceny-in-law, wealthy Lynn realtor, and the latter's brother, Joseph.

One count charged Gross with the larceny of $400.00 from Harry Goodman, a second specified $100.00 from Harry and Joseph Goodman and the third $400 from Harry Goodman.

ASKS DECREE AND GEMS

Gross' wife, Gertrude, has brought suit for divorce, and has filed a bill in equity against her husband and William G. Brown, Lynn pawnbroker, seeking to recover pawned jewelry, valued at $2,500.

The indictments against Gross resulted from a collection as treasurer with the Electric Radio Co. Market at Lynn during the period, according to police, he gave his father-in-law a mortgage for $4,000. Later Goodman was indicted for larceny from the same source, permitting Gross to handle his affairs. The son-in-law sent him a discharge with the statement that another man had taken a mortgage for $10,000. Goodman, police say, signed the discharge, but never received his $4,000.

The other counts in the indictment have to do with alleged larceny of rent and money bonds while Gross was handling the business of his father-in-law, former owner of a chain of shops for women.

PAWNEE PREVIOUSLY

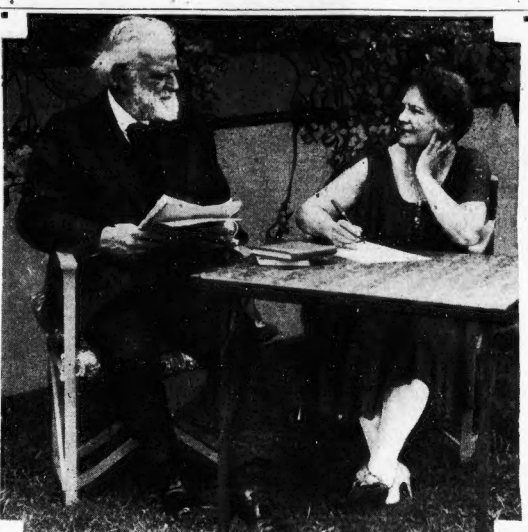

The bill in equity brought by Mrs. Gertrude Gross seeks to recover an engagement ring valued at $1,000 on which Gross is alleged to have charged $500; a wedding ring valued at $200, pawned for $100; and a wrist watch, valued at $700, a gift to the bride from her father, pawned for $100.

In her bill, she said, when she went to the pawnbroker's she was instructed him to give her jewelry to him or himself.

Roxbury Man Faces Rum Carrying Trial

Charged with transporting liquor, Harold Cobb of Chalkley st., Roxbury, was held in $200 today in Slaughterhouse district court for hearing on a warrant obtained by James J. Sullivan, a police officer, who alleged $50,000 from a truck on the state road in Canton last Sunday.

AT MANET BEACH, QUINCY, the venerable Here he dictated the Tercentenary ode to his Edwin Markham, poet, reading his "The Man With the Hoe," secretary, Mrs. Florence Hamilton.

MOVE TO DELAY COSTS FAILS

On the eve of the arrival in Boston Monday of the French transatlantic liner, a suggestion was made today that they postpone their visit until Oct. 9.

According to the Associated Press the suggestion was made by W. E. Eastwood, donor of the $25,000 prize which Diadem, Costa and Maurice Bellotti was by their one-time flight from Paris.

Regarding prohibition, Mr. Markham believes the solution of the problem lies in the government (taken over control as it is done in Canada. He has used light wines but does not care for stronger drinks.

He thinks under government control there should be light wines and beers with rigid inspection and restrictions on stronger drink. The income derived from this would lessen taxes on the people in his opinion.

POLICEMAN IS BEATEN, 1 HELD

In a noisy battle that aroused the whole neighborhood, Patrolman Hersey Slack of East Dedham division was attacked and beaten by three men early today at Harriett ave. and Rochester st.

In spite of two black eyes, a scalp wound and other injuries, Slack continued fighting until two of his assailants fled.

The third man, alleged to be Daniel P. McCaffrey, he held and arrested and McCaffrey was held in 50000 bail in Municipal Court for a hearing Tuesday. Warrants were issued for the other men. A woman, said to be the mother of one of the men, was questioned.

Officials Estimate Procession Will Take Seven Hours to Pass; Allen to Lead Guard

One of the largest parades ever held in Boston, taking seven hours to pass a given point, will be the procession planned for Wednesday afternoon as the highlight in Boston's Tercentenary celebration.

Commanded by Gen. Edward L. Logan, as chief marshal, with an imposing array of leading citizens as aides, the parade will be made up of more than 25,000 marchers, 100 bands and 200 floats.

Forming at Arlington and Beacon sts. at noon, it will pass through Arlington, Beacon School, Washington, Dock Sq. Congress, Postoffice sq., Milk Federal, High, Summer, Winter, Tremont, Boylston sts. to Park sq. and Columbus ave., disbanding at Clarendon st.

TO REVIEW PARADE

The parade will be reviewed by Gov. Allen, Mayor Curley and the distinguished guests, notably His Worship, Reuben Salter, mayor of Boston, England, at the court of the Boston Gymnasium, opposite West st.

According to the Tercentenary committee, 200 floats in the grandstand on Tremont st. will be thrown open to the public at 10 a. m., with the policy of first come, first served in effect.

The other 400 reserved seats have been appointed vacant invited guests and the 100 seats in the court of honor will be occupied by officials. With the parade will include two full military organizations, a historical pageant division, a high school division of boys and girls, a civic and business division, one of fraternal and rural groups, division of juvenile organizations, a number of veteran divisions and a commercial and industrial division.

Gov. Allen and his staff will be escorted by veterans of the 101st Infantry, 101st Cavalry, 101st Division of the Regular Army, Navy and Marine Corps.

GOV. ALLEN IN LINE

Gov. Allen will lead next to commandant-in-chief of the National Guard, with an escort of more than 300 troops. Next in line will be the mayor, with the state militia, escorted by 200 members of the National and Honorable Artillery Co.

NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE

PRICES RISE TO CLOSE

IN WALL STREET TRADING

New York, Sept. 12.—Prices rallied in the closing period of trading on the New York Stock Exchange today, after a further drop in the first hour.

Bank leaders whose efforts on Friday had unsettled the market resumed their attempts to break prices at the first sign of the opening bell today, but the bulls finished strong support to their few critics, turning values upward.

Investment buying of high grade stocks was stimulated by the favorable survey of trade and business conditions by Bradstreet, Dun's and the principal Wall Street banks.

VERY PROFESSIONAL.

The market was highly professional and price fluctuations represented little more than the activity of such floor traders as did not leave town for the week-end. The decline of the past two days left the general level of the market what below that of a week ago, but bears were disappointed by the largeness of the week-end selling, and, when they tried to buy back their shares in the morning, they found offerings scant.

Leading shares generally rallied from the morning's trading, but failed to regain much of yesterday's losses.

During the first hour a long list of shares dropped 1 to 5 points, and American Tobacco stock making the maximum decline.

These losses were largely recovered, however, and several shares advanced to a point above their American Water Works was a firm up, rising 4 points. Shares making net gains of a point or more included American Can, Vanadium, McKesson, Loomis, Western Union, and Newell Steel, U. S. Steel closed unchanged.

During the early drop, shares selling off 2 to 3 points or more included U. S. Steel, Sears & Roebuck, Rogers, Ryers, Westinghouse, and Public Service of New Jersey. The closing tone was steady. Total sales approximated 1,000,000 shares.

WALL ENCOURAGED.

Bulls were encouraged by the fact that the short selling yesterday and today involved a net selling of an amount of real liquidation of long holdings. Professional efforts on

THE SHIP GIRL'S CHAMPION
How the Manly Clerk in a Chicago News Administration Justice to a Fresh Young New York Drummer.

(Editors Note: We are always glad to receive and print accounts of heroism, etc., which will inspire others to do likewise. The following account was sent us by Mr. Rindfleisch, Chicago, Ill. His letter, dated Nov. 24, 1925, was unfortunately delayed by the editor's office, but finally reached us yesterday.)

THE SHIP GIRL'S CHAMPION

(Subject of Illustration)

Max Rosenberg is a gay, dapper fellow, who represents a house of dealers in suits, New York. Max was in Chicago a few days ago and visited the stores frequently. One of the salesladies, a Miss Maxine Rosenberg, whose dark eyes and bright smile haunted Max whenever he went to his hotel. He wrote a note to Miss Rosenberg and dropped it near where she stood. She was induced by friends to open the note, which requested her to meet him at 8 o'clock the following evening in front of the First National Bank. The man who wrote the note was the same store proprietor the young woman to keep the appointment.

Rosenberg was highly elated at the sight of Miss Rosenberg, and thanked her for being so prompt. Just at that moment one of the girls named Rosenberg, stepped up and asked Rosenberg if he was acquainted with the young lady whom he addressed, adding that he was her husband. Rosenberg declared that he knew her and remarked the lack of family resemblance between the two. Rosenberg then turned to Miss Rosenberg and asked if she knew the man with whom they were conversing. On receiving a negative reply, Rosenberg at once threw off his coat, and, striking out from the crowd, landed a good one from his left fist on Rosenberg's nose. Rosenberg picked himself up in such haste that he lost his bagpipe, a simple case containing $2000 worth of goods he came and let, and left a hasty retreat.

Malden High Will Have Strong Eleven This Season

BOSTON EVENING AMERICAN SPORTS

MALDEN BACKS READY TO WHIRL THROUGH OPPOSING ELEVEN'S

TO FINEST OF BACKS READY

By BILL CONNELL
Malden high school, which had an unbeaten eleven last year, and one of the best backfields of school ranks, will have another fine group of ball carriers this season.

With two sets of backs ready to replace the tough opposition that the team must face, Head Coach Goddard is relieved of some of his worries.

John Kelly, able halfback, is the one left over from the 1929 edition of Malden grid. He will play in the first game, which will be against the rival team, the Waverley Wanderers, on September 14.

Bill Connell joined by two sophomores, just out of Lincoln junior high, who will rank with the best backs of Malden in the past years if they come up to expectations.

At Kerwin, head of the team, is a fine prospect who will be kept and used separately through the season, providing injuries do not break up the plans.

Ray Perry Only Veteran Lineman

Capt. Ray Perry, center, is the only lineman left from last year's team. There are a number of youngsters after the front line, but though they have had no second team or junior high school work, these are in to make a creditable showing in the fall.

Malden has one of the finest line coaching tris in the state. Ed Goddard, head coach, Warren, McGuire and Dutch, who have been at the helm for many years, are three men who would be hard to beat at their jobs.

If the line can be developed fast, Malden will be fit to go through its hard slate without defeat. The team is prepared for the team this year, and will be able to complete the season without defeat.

The season opens against River, then follows Newton, Haverhill, Melrose, Lynn, and finally, the Manchester, N. H. Everett, Moorehead, and the Waverley Wanderers on Thanksgiving Day.

CARS SCORE RUNS IN FIRST

Philly, Sept. 13 (AP)—Cloudy skies greeted the Chicago Cubs this afternoon as they met the St. Louis Cardinals in the first game of a double header at the Polo Grounds.

The Cardinals are in place on the slim margin of a half game, but the Cubs are in a better position. The Cubs are in a better position to win the third place today while the Cardinals are in a better position to win the third place today.

Pat Malone took the mound for Chicago and Elliott started for the Phillies.

FIRST INNING
Cubs—Blair beat out a single to Hunt and took second when Hunter threw wild to Elliott who covered the bag. English walked. Hunter filed to Brickett. Wilson singled to right, filling the bases. D. Taylor fanned. Kelly singled to left scoring Blair and English. Wilson stopping at second. Harman singled to right field. Blair scored. Wilson and placing Kelly on third. Thompson tossed out Bell.

Aggies Practice in Intense Heat
Amherst, Sept. 13—Intense heat failed to slow up the Massachusetts Agricultural College football squad as it prepared through the usual three sessions under the direction of Coach McFadden and Graves. In deference to the weather the team appeared without pads and clad in basketball shorts and sneakers.

Work was again limited to fun runs and the minutely routine drill. Coach McFadden was in the line, reporting this afternoon in civilian attire.

Local arrivals included Ralph Kneeland of Quincy, speedy little back and eighth letterman now in camp.

Drivers Injured in Groton Horse Races
Groton, Sept. 13—A fire provided a scene for the Groton horse races held here in connection with the Groton fair. In the second heat of the 2 1/2 mile race, Earl Wilkes, driven by E. Stewart of Wakefield, collided with Quincy, speedy little back and eighth letterman now in camp.

Albertanti New Publicity Director at Boston Garden

Francis Albertanti, for two years secretary to William F. Carey, president of the Madison Square Garden Corporation, New York, and assistant to Frank Bruen, general manager and vice-president of Madison Square Garden, is coming here on October 1 to accept a position with the Boston Garden. He will be assistant general manager and director of publicity.

Albertanti is one of the best known men in the sporting world. He started in as a copy boy and telephone operator on the old Evening Mail of New York and mounted to become one of the star sports reporters of that sheet before the late Frank A. Munsey made one of his numerous combinations "retaining the best features of each."

"Francis" as he is known throughout the sports world, later joined the staff of the Evening Telegram and there became assistant to Ike Dorgan, brother of the famous "Tad" publicity director of Madison Square Garden under the late Ted Rickard. When Rickard died and William F. Carey assumed command the Garden boys were quick to recognize Albertanti's ability, wide acquaintance, knowledge of sports, and experience, and made him secretary and assistant general manager.

At old times Francis has left his desk to assist in handling the public for many of the Madison Square Garden's big sporting enterprises. Just after leaving the Evening Telegram and before entering the Madison Square Garden, he will be seen in the Madison Square Garden, he will be seen in the Madison Square Garden.
